MESSAGES

MESSAGE

It is heartening to know that the India Trade Promotion Organisation (ITPO) is holding the 18th edition of Tex Styles India at Pragati Maidan, New Delhi from 21st to 24th February, 2017.

Indian textiles are known for their beautiful colours and design. No the country in the world has such a close connection between its diverse culture and wide-ranging textile tradition as India. Indian textile industry plays a pivotal role through its contribution to industrial output, employment generation and export earnings of the country. The textile and apparel exports from India are expected to increase to US$82 billion by 2021.

We are confident that the textile sector will get a further boost through the policy initiatives such as the GST. In order to empower the industry, the Government has decided to roll-out a new scheme called Trade Infrastructure for Export Scheme (TIES) – to boost export infrastructure in alignment with the National Foreign Trade Policy as well as encouraging Central agencies to set-up common facilities for testing, certification, track-back, packaging, labelling and storage, in partnership with the State Government.

Complimenting ITPO as well as all supporting bodies, I wish that Tex Styles India 2017 will witness mutually beneficial interactions between buyers and sellers from India and abroad on a substantial scale and provide a boost to the textile exports.

Conveying my best wishes for the success of this prestigious show.

(Nirmala Sitharaman)

MESSAGE

It is my pleasure to welcome all the participants and business visitors to the 18th edition of Tex Styles India 2017 (February 21 to 24) in Hall 10 & 11 at Pragati Maidan, New Delhi.

In order to further provide impetus to the Indian textile industry, ITPO is also holding Tex-Styles India Kolkata edition alongwith its India International Leather Fair from February 26 to 28, 2017.

The fair is being organised by India Trade Promotion Organisation (ITPO) with support of the Ministry of Textiles, Govt. of India, Textile Commissioner of India and apex textile bodies.

Continuing the mission for making India's development inclusive and participative, under the dynamic leadership of the Hon'ble Prime Minister of India, ITPO has endeavoured to make the textile sector more vibrant through several initiatives. Highlighting India as a global hub of textile manufacturing as well as a preferred investment destination, the event features a perfect blend of fashion, design, quality, patterns, textures, colours and finish.

Exports of textiles and apparel have achieved a growth rate of 14% in rupee terms and 7.5% in dollar terms during the last three financial years. Tex Styles India also intends to empower the SME sector which is the backbone of Indian textile economy due to its inherent ability to promote exports and generate employment opportunities.

I would like to acknowledge the unstinted support and co-operation received from the Ministry of Textiles, Govt. of India, Textile Commissioner of India and apex textile and garment bodies.

Once again, it is my pleasure, on behalf of ITPO, to welcome the participants and business delegates to the fair and wish them all success in their business interaction.

The Indian Textiles - A write up

Tex Styles India – the word brings up images of beautiful drapes – cotton, silk, chiffon, lace. Whether it is the material draped on the figurine of the lady from Mohenjo-Daro, the stylish drapes of Cleopatra, the ball dance gowns of the Victorian Era or the lovely dresses worn by our own queens and princesses – clothes have always been an integral part of a person's life. Different types of textiles have been worn through the ages – natural fibres like cotton, jute and silk and man-made fibres like rayon, chiffon and muslin.

Indian textiles are known world over for their beautiful colours and designs. No other country in the world has such a close connection between its diverse culture and wide-ranging textile tradition as India. Be it Bandhani of Rajasthan, Kantha of Bengal, Tanchoi of Gujarat or Kanjivaram of Tamil Nadu, each of these textiles has a distinct hallmark of regional culture and tradition. Banarasi silk, Odisha silk, Tassar, Moonga and Chanderi are brands known and accoladed all over the world.

India has always been at the forefront in the production and use of cotton textiles. Historically, cotton was the cloth of the common man, either as dhoti, kurta, saree or lehenga. As a major producer of cotton, the cotton textile industry was so prominent at one time that it became a threat to the cotton industries of Great Britain. So much so, that the British, in order to save their own textile manufacturing, had to bring in various policies to stop Indian cotton textiles from reaching the world and force Indian consumers to buy their own cotton textiles. These practices of the British government became a major factor in the rise of the national movement. It also saw the birth of Khadi as an icon of independence.

Over the years, Khadi has become the invaluable asset of heritage providing respectable means of livelihood to a huge human resource especially rural women. Seeing the potential of Khadi in providing employment to millions of people, the Prime Minister, in one of his “Mann Ki Baat”, called upon the Indian youth to adopt at least one khadi garment among many others. Khadi is also the cleanest and the most sustainable fabric with the potential to provide a strong alternative to modern synthetic fibres which are environmentally unsafe. Handlooms is another diverse and eco-friendly sector which blends rich ancient traditions with modern innovations. In PM's words, we need to give rightful place to traditional handloom products and make them the centre piece of fashion for India and the world.

Indian Silk has been famous worldwide from times immemorial. It was a major export item along with pearls, peacocks and spices. Indian silk and muslin were much sought after the world over. The sericulture industry is a major employer in the North-East and southern parts of the country. Jute, as a fiber is predominantly used in packaging material. But, of late jute has also caught the imagination of fashion designers and jute textile material is being marketed and worn in a big way. Technical textiles are the emerging textiles, used in various applications like medical applications, civil engineering, automobiles etc.

The second largest producer and exporter of textiles and garments in the world, Indian textile industry is also the second largest employer after agriculture generating employment to over 45 million Indian people directly and over 60 million people indirectly. It contributes 4 per cent to the country's GDP. To take care of artisans "welfare and familiarize them with latest technological advances in the field, Government has introduced host of schemes like Weavers' Service Centers, Craft Cluster Initiative, e-commerce platforms etc.

Textiles accounting for 5.56 per cent of the global share and 14 per cent of India's total exports in 2015-16, however, stands at the cross roads in exports, facing stiff competition from China, Bangladesh, EU, Hong Kong, Vietnam, Indonesia, the USA and Cambodia. However, with favorable government policies and schemes like allowing 100 per cent FDI in textile sector, Amended Technology Upgradation Fund Scheme (ATUFS), Technology Mission on Technical Textiles (TMTT), establishment of Focus Incubation Centers, Market Development Assistance, Mega Cluster Development Schemes, etc., the textile sector is sure to continue to be at the forefront of not only the Indian economy, but also touch new heights in world exports.

The textile sector will get further boost through the policy initiatives such as the GST. Further empowering of the industry. The Government has also geared-up to tie-up soon with the States and roll-out a new scheme called 'TIES' (Trade Infrastructure for Export Scheme) – to boost export infrastructure in alignment with the National Foreign Trade Policy as well as enhancing Central agencies to set-up common facilities for testing, certification track –back, packaging, labeling and storage.

Promotion of marketing of handloom products through e-commerce is therefore one of the priorities of the Ministry of Textiles. In order to promote e-marketing of handloom products in a transparent, competitive and effective manner, different e-commerce platforms have been engaged for marketing of handloom products. By building such a marketplace, the artisan can be empowered to earn a decent livelihood.

PRAGATI MAIDAN

The Exhibition Complex

Pragati Maidan, headquarters of the India Trade Promotion Organisation is more than just the premier exhibition complex of India. True to the meaning of its name, 'Pragati Maidan' stands for development and progress through trade.

Being India's biggest world-class exhibition complex and a symbol of the 'Modern Fair Culture' in India, Pragati Maidan has grown with every event in stature and dimension. The development of the exhibition ground was a prelude to the hosting of the Railway Exhibition in 1952 to mark the centenary of Railways in India. This was followed by fairs like International Low Cost Housing Exhibition in 1955, International Graphics Art and Printing Machinery Fair in 1957, World Agriculture Fair in 1960 and Indian Industrial Exhibition in 1961. However, the sprawling complex took its shape during 1958. The seventies changed both the fair complex as well as its complexion, with the hosting of Asia 1972 – the third Asian International Trade Fair coinciding with India's Silver Jubilee Year of Independence. It was an important milestone, as the Indian business community could understand the potential of promotional events like the trade fairs. The fair ground was rechristened as 'Pragati Maidan'. In an ostensible acknowledgement of the significance of these events, the Trade Fair Authority of India (TFAI) was formed on April 1, 1977, by an Act of Parliament through the amalgamation of three bodies.

Indian Council of Trade Fairs and Exhibitions, Directorate of Exhibitions and Commercial Publicity of the Ministry of Commerce and India International Trade Fair Organisation, with the primary aim of organising trade shows. India Trade Promotion Organisation was formed subsequently on January 1, 1992 with the merger of the former Trade Development Authority (TDA) into TFAI. TDA was set up in 1970 as a registered Society under the Ministry of Commerce. Professionally managing India's premier exhibition complex, ITPO has over the years reached many important milestones while performing its mandated role as the nodal trade promotion agency of the Government of India. Also Significant has been the setting up of the National Centre for Trade Information (NCTI), jointly by ITPO and the National Informatics Centre (NIC), Government of India at Pragati Maidan in October 1994. ITPO, apart from maintain-its own database with regard to products and markets, is also regularly interacting with NCTI for supplementing its information base.

As a world class exhibition ground in India, Pragati Maidan hosts a series of high quality international and national trade fairs. Its exhibition halls, complete with a network of infrastructural facilities, in a lush green setting, make it the automatic choice of top-notch exhibition organisers from India and abroad.

Pragati Maidan offers a business environment that promises to transform challenges into opportunities. Visited by top representatives and captains of trade and industry from all over India and abroad, Pragati Maidan clearly tunes into the requirements of the vast Indian and global markets.

In order to upgrade facilities at Pragati Maidan, ITPO is actively pursuing the re-development of Pragati Maidan, as a state-of-the-art, world class, Integrated Exhibition-cum- Convention Centre (IECC). The project envisages construction of Exhibition space of 1,20,000 sqm. to 1,50,000 sqm, a convention centre of seating capacity of 7,000 persons in single format (Plenary hall of capacity 3,000 persons and functional hall of capacity 4,000 persons), parking facility of capacity 4,800 per car unit (PCU) and related essential infrastructure.
